What is Cryptocurrency?

Cryptocurrency is a type of digital or virtual currency that uses cryptography for security. Unlike traditional currencies issued by governments (such as the US dollar or euro), cryptocurrencies operate on decentralized networks based on blockchain technology. This means they are not controlled by any central authority, like a bank or government.

Bitcoin, the first and most well-known cryptocurrency, was created in 2009.

Since then, thousands of cryptocurrencies have emerged, including Ethereum, Binance Coin, and Solana, each with unique features and use cases. Cryptocurrencies can be used for various purposes, including online transactions, investment, and decentralized finance (DeFi) applications.
